M. H. S. WINS BY SCORE OF 63-0

HAD ROCK PORT OUTCLASSED AND OUTPLAYED.

INTERRUPTED BY RAIN

Suspended for Half Hour at End of the First—Finished in the Mud.

The Maryville high school football squad defeated yesterday afternoon the Rock Port aggregation with a lop-sided score of 63-0. The Rock Port boys were badly outplayed and outclassed, although they had a heavy line., At the end of the first half it rained and it looked for a time that the game would have to be cancelled, but after a half hour's wait the rain ceased and play was resumed. From then on the game was slow and marred by fumbles on account of the mud, but the Maryville boys by continual line plunges and short runs made score after score.

There were no individual stars on either team. All of the Maryville line men played good games and stop most of Rock Port's plays at the line of scrimmage. Rock Port made only one first down and was forced to kick when she had the ball the rest of the time.

The game by halfs:

1st half—Maryville won the toss and elected to receive the ball. O'Banion received on the punt. After three downs Maryville punted but in Rock Port's first down the ball was fumbled. Willoughby by a broken field run gained 10 yards. O'Banion passed to Willoughby for a 20 yard gain. Masters then carried the ball for 10 yards to a touch down. O'Banion place kicked, making the score 7 to 0.

Maryville kicked off and Rock Port was forced to punt, but the punt was bad and Masters carried the ball back to where the line of scrimmage was. After a series of downs Masters carried the ball for a 1 yard gain and Chick made a touch down. O'Banion again made a place kick, making the score 14 to 0.

Coach H. Frank Lawrence of Maryville then began to make substitutions in the Maryville lin up. Fannon was sent in to replace Carstens, who was injured in the Tarkio team.

Rock Port's plays were all fine plunges which resulted in frequent fumbles.

After losing the ball on downs, but recovering one of Rock Port's fumbles O'Banion passed the ball to Ogden for a 25-yard gain and touch down. O'Banion failed to kick goal. Score 20 to 0.

Maryville kicked off, but soon ran down a punt. O'Banion passed to Fannon for a 50-yard gain and touch down. O'Banion failed in making a place kick. Score 26 to 0.

O'Banion made a run for a 25-yard gain at right end and in the next down carried the ball over. O'Banion again failed to make the place kick. Score 32 to 0.

Ogden intercepted one of Rock Port's passes and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. O'Banion instead of attempting to kick, passed the ball to Willoughby, but Willoughby lacked two inches in making the extra point. Score 38 to 0.

Mountjoy was sent in for Epperson. On the first down Mountjoy recovered one of Rock Port's fumbles. At this stage of the game the threatening rain came up and almost all the rooters left the field to go to the college for protection. The game was carried on for a while, but soon was postponed until after the rain.

The second half was a repetition of the first with Maryville slowed down considerably by the mud. The other touchdowns were made as follows: Chick by big gain from an end play. Masters failed to kick goal. Score 44 to 0.

ASSASSINATION PLOT HALTED AT LIEPZIG BY POISON CANDY

Liepxig, October 7—The trial of Warnicke Guenther and three others charged with complicity in the assassination plot against the late Dr. Walter Rathenau, German foreign secretary, was suddenly halted today by the illness of the defendants, who were poisoned with typhus bacilli contained in a box of candy sent from Berlin.

UNFORTUNATELY BIG SALE DATE AND SCHOOL DAY ARE SAME.

An unfortunate situation exists in that the Spotted Poland-China sale of A. M. Gray is to take place October 11, the same day that the Nodaway County School Day comes. Mr. Gray had his sale date set a year ago and was unable to make any change. The logical time for the School Day is the day preceding the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association meeting, which starts October 12, so this could not be changed.

BEARCATS LOSE 18 TO 0 IN GAME AT KIRKSVILLE

Team Tas Not Yet Returned — Earl Miller Gets Dislocated Shoulder in Game.

The State Teachers College Bearcats lost their second conference game of the season yesterday afternoon at Kirksville to Kirksville State Teachers College team by a score of 18 to 0. The team has not yet returned so no particulars have been obtained other than the faet that Earl Miller, Bearcasts right halfback, sustained a dislocated shoulder in the first quarter.

The Kirksville team is strong this year. Coach McWilliams has eleven letter men of last year back with him and this forms a fine neucleus for a strong team.

STORM CAUSES BARNS TO BURN

HURLEY AND SHARP BUILDINGS ARE DESTROYED

OUTSIDE CITY LIMITS

Fire Department Went But the Hose Was too Short to Reach the Flames

Two fires at the same time occured late yesterday afternoon, the first at the T. J. Hurley place, the alarm being turned in by Alfred Engelmann, and the second alarm by Bert Sharp. In both instances it was barns that were on fire, both being caused by having been struck by lightning during the storm.

The fire department went to the Engelmenn's place but there was not sufficient fire hose to reach the burning barn, the nearest fire plug being at the South end of Buchanan street. This barn was destroyed together with contents of hay and corn. The loss is estimated at $650. The fire hose was put down but it only reached the Engelmann's Greenhouses.

While the fire department were at Engelmann's they could see the flames from the Bert Sharp barn in southeast Maryville. The department went to the Sharp place but the fire hose would not reach the burning barn. The Sharp loss was estimated at $500.

Both of these places are outside of the city limits.

Mayor Robinson is figuring on buying additional hose for the fire department and either a light truck for carrying this hose or additional engine power for the present truck. At present the fire truck is overloaded for the capacity of the truck.

Fire Chief Burt M. Rowley said this was the third time in the history of the city department that two fires were at the same time.

ALLISON TO SPEAK ON "AN EDUCATED HEART" OCT. 15

Is to Be a Follow-up for the School Day and the Teachers Meeting

"An Educated Heart" will be the subject of the sermon of the Rev. S. P. Allison, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening October 15. He announces that he will speak on this subject because of the Nodaway County School Day and because of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association meeting, both of which will be held in Maryville next week. The sermon will deal with the churchreal goal of education, the relation of the church to the schools and the value of wholesome amusement and association on days such as School Day.

Porf. Luther A. Richman, music director of the church, is planning the music for this service. A special invitation will be extended to the school and college folk.

COOPER IS TO END HIS NIGHT SERIES

PRESENT DAY NEEDS CONCLUDED WITH THOSE OF WORLD.

IS LACK OF IDEALS

Has a Series on "Christian Realities" That Is Being Given on Sunday Mornings.

The Rev. Joseph A. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will complete tomorrow evening a three-sermon series that he has been carrying on dealing with "Present Day Needs." The subject tomorrow evening will be on "The World's Needs."

In his series Mr. Cooper is attempting to show that the supreme needs of today are those of ideals which religion alone can furnish. In the first one, which was on "Your Need and My Need," he spoke of the fact that the ideal for the body, mind and the social side of nature for each individual must be an ideal of service if we are to be able to propertly develop and use our many sides.

In the sermon on "American Needs" he showed that as a nation America seems to be without great ideals. Politically we are either without leadership or are unwilling to follow what leadership there is. We face a campaign in which neither great party has been able to suggest a program of real challenge to the idealism of the American people. What is true of politics is true on the whole of education. There are many fine individual ideals on the part of educators and students, but it would be hard to name any great ideal which is characteristic of the present day education.

The ideals of politics and education, as well as of the home and church, upon which real growth and welfare of America depends are to be found in that ideal of service which religion suggests and develops.

In his closing sermon of the series it will be Mr. Cooper's object to bring out that the problem of the world is not really one of economics or politics, but supremely one of religion. The need of the world like America's need is the ideal of brotherhood and service, which is religion's gift to the world as well as to the individual.

In anticipation of special meetings to be started October 22, Mr. Cooper is preaching a Sunday morning series on "Christian Realities." The subject of the sermon Sunday morning will be, "Is the Cross Real to Us."

FRANCE-BRITISH AGREEMENT FOR EVACUATION.

CALL TWO CONFERENCES

Lord Carzon and Premier Poincare Get Together on the Terms Today.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The Franco-British agreement on the Turkish-Greece situation today calls for evacuation of Thrace by the Greeks and the calling of two conferences.

One conference will be held at Scutari before November 10, at which terms of the peace settlement will be agreed upon and the second conference at a committee of the league of nations to settle the question of the status of the straits.

Paris, Oct. 7—Lord Carzon, British foreign secretary, and Premier Poincare of France are reported this afternoon to have reached a Near East compromise regarding Turkish occupation of Thrace, which will permit resumption of the Mudania armistice negotiations, unless the Turks balk at the terms.

London, Oct. 7—Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, and Premier Poincare of France today reached a compromise agreement on the Near East according to a copy of the telegram to General Sir Charles Harrington, British delegate to the Near East armistice conference at Mudania. FOREIGN SHIPS MAY CEASE TO CALL AT AMERICAN PORTS

Many Objections are Expected to the Ruling of Attorney-General Daugherty.

London, Oct. 7.—The foreign shipping companies may cease to call at New York and other United States ports because of Attorney General Daugherty's ruling in Washington that ships carrying liquor are prohibited to enter the three mile limit of the American coast, it is reported here today. Halifax or other Canadian ports may be substituted. The foreign office said the ruling was entirely according to the international law and is logical in a legal sense.

Washington, Oct. 7.—A flood of international complications the extent of which is not officially predicted is expected today to follow the government's order against ships carrying liquor to enter the American ports. Orders were given that all American ships immediately cease the sale of liquor.

Orders to foreign ships are withheld pending working out of the arrangements carrying order into effect. Officials say that the law as framed gives executives no alternative and that it is up to congress if the law is to be changed.

The corn was well selected and it is said that the plates of apples were so nearly perfect that the judges had much trouble in determining which the prizes were to go to. The judges were Roy A. Kinnaird, county agent, and W. W. Stanfield of the State Teachers College.

The Chamber of Commeree and farm bureau films, which were to have been run at Clearmont last night, were not shown on account of the rain.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The conversation of property loss by fire is worthy of the consideration of every person. Many of the fires that occur are traceable to direct negligence of some person. Proper precautions were not taken. People were not careful enough, not thoughtful enough. Loss by fire would be brought down to the minimum if every person would fight fire hazards and apply safety first principles. We are now at the season of the year when the greatest precaution should be taken to prevent fires. Just now when furnaces and stoves are being started in the homes, people should be careful to see that flues are properly cleaned, that pipes are properly connected, that no combustible or inflamable material lies loosely about producing a fire hazard. When property is destroyed by fire, there is exactly that much property less in the community, in the state or in the nation. That which is destroyed by fire can never be replaced; it is gone forever.

You cannot be too careful in safeguarding your home and your premises against fire.—Hannibal Courier-Post.

A great many American business men would do well to adopt the policy of the Chinese. Whatever other faults they may have, honesty in business seems to be a sort of national policy among the Orientals. Business men who have occasion to do considerable business with Chinese merchants, declare they have no hesitancy in extending credit even where the buyer is unknown because the Chinese make it a rule to pay their debts. How many Chinese merchants could feel safe in selling goods to all our dealers without acquaintance or looking up their commercial standing? And how many of our own jobbers can safely sell without regard to the Dunn and Bradstreet reports? Why should the business standards of the Chinese be higher than those of this enlightened country?

U. S. TARIFF CUTS GOLF BALL PRICE IN LONDON

London, Oct. 7.—Golfers are the only persons in England who get any satisfaction out of the new American tariff law.

The new tariff fixes a 45 per cent duty on golf balls, and fearing that their export market will be cut off, the manufacturers have reduced the price of golf balls in England by 20 per cent.

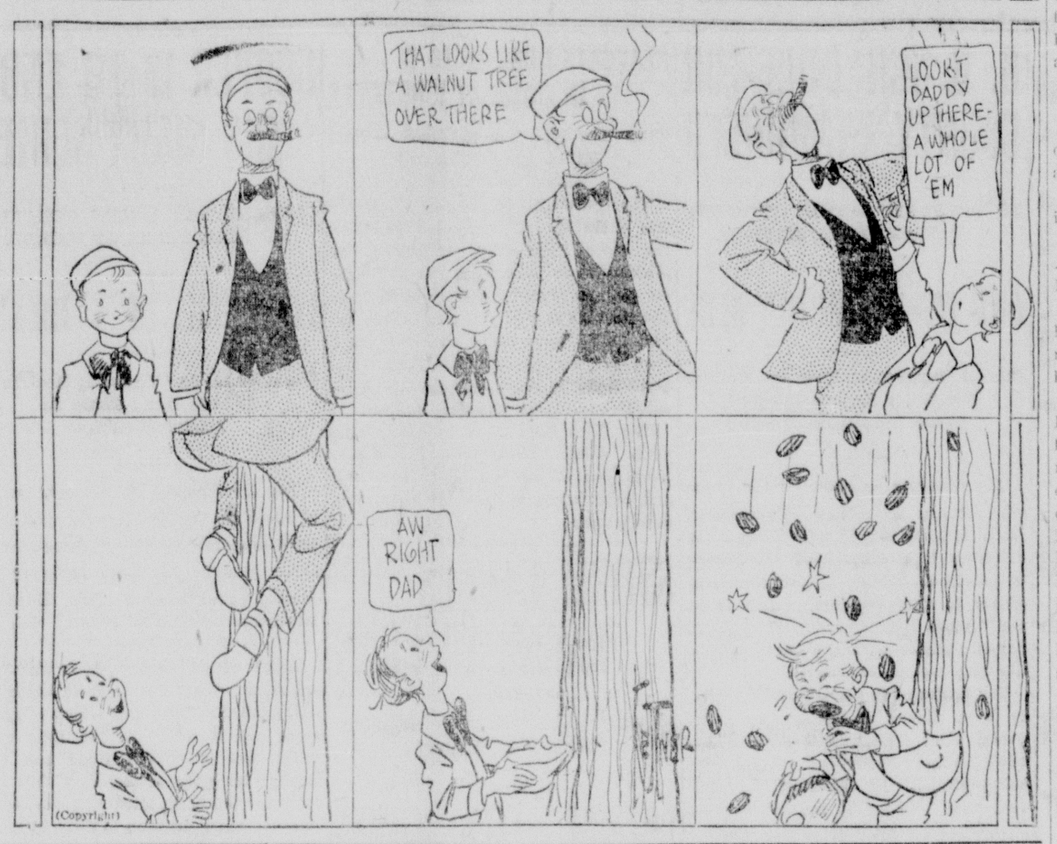
On the Road of Good Intentions



Insurance Does Not Prevent Loss From Fire-Its There Just The Same

We have stood many times in the crowd watching the flames leap through some individual's place of business or home, and have heard some one make the remark:

"Let it burn; the insurance company will pay for it."

Perhaps at the time we may have agreed with the remark, knowing that the person whose property was burning undoubtedly had full insurance protection. We knew the owner would file his loss claim, collect the amount due him and we felt that in a reasonable time we would see a new building arising out of the ruins of the old one.

But, no matter how fully the property may be covered by insurance, the owner of the business and the public are losers. The institution of insurance enables the owner to replace the property destroyed by transferring the risk to an insurance company, but it is a fallacy to consider that the company is the ultimate loser. The insurance company is really a distributing agency through which the losses of the unfortunate few are carried by many policy holders. When the fire losses of an insurance company increase it is nesecary that the premium income of the company be increased proportionately to pay the losses. The general fire loss therefore has a direct effect upon the premiums paid by individuals and individual business organizations, whether they actually sustain the loss or not. As it is natural for manufacturing and other business organizations to consider insurance charges as a part of the cost of productions, those charges are passed on to the Ultimate consumer. This places an added burden on the citizens of the country, and since it is reflected in the cost of everything purchased it may be likened to a tax.

Further, when a fire occurs the results of productive energy are lost forever. By means of insurance the owner is supplied with a rebuilding fund, but the nations a whole has suffered the loss of value represented by raw material and labor utilized in the construction of the property destroyed. Suppose a few men were living on a desert island dependent entirely on their own resources for their existence. These men agree to divide their labors so that each will conduct a definite activity for the benefit of all. One has been designated to carry on farming and is raising crops for the use of his companions. As the result of a storm the crops are entirely destroyed and though they belong exclusively to the one man raising them, the others suffer equally by being deprived of the subsistence which they require.

In our busy community and in the nation as a whole this analogy holds, although on a larger and more comlicated basis. The fact remains, however, that each individual property loss is a permanent loss to the nation. It cannot be replaced although the burden can be distributed among many.

It behooves everyone therefore, for selfish reasons, if for no other, to use every care possible to prevent fires either on his own property or that of others. By proclamation of the President of the United States each citizen has been called upon to observe Monday, October 9, as Fire Prevention Day. The week previous to this day is being observed throughout the country as Fire Prevention Week, during which time everyone is called upon to carefully consider the matter of fire prevention and the means which he can utilize to reduce the enormous annual fire waste.

SHOEMAKER-BOVARD

Mayonnaise and Medicine

By A. W. PEACH

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Laurence Montresor completed his hospital apprenticeship and became a full-fledged doctor he selected Yateston, not because he had any friends there or knew very much about the city. But after investigation, Yateston appeared to be one of the fast growing communities in the hundred-mile circle around the medical college where he had trained and within which he wished to establish himself. Moreover there did not seem to be a plethora of doctors there. In fact, the number of doctors per inhabitant was considerbaly below the number that prevailed in other towns of its size.

And Laurence Montresor chose the Arcade for his office because it was the best of the second rate office buildings that Yateston afforded. He could establish himself in more pretentious quarters later when he was better known.

So one June day there appeared in the corridor of the Arcade a bright and shining sign that said "Dr. Laurence Lidley Montresor, room 204, office hours 8-10 a. m., 1-2 and 7-8 p. m." This sign was posted directly beside that other sign that read "Headquarters for the Laura Belle Mayonnaise, room 204."

"Some name," said the maker of the mayonnaise, as she came to her office and workroom the morning when the doctor's sign was newest—Laurence Lidley Montresor. "I'll bet he's a perfect lady with a name like that."

And Laurence Lidley Montresor, who was anything in the world but a lady, being above average size, broad and brawny and sometimes a little burly, looked at the sign beneath his own: "Laura Belle—that's a poor name for mayonnaise," he reflected. "Hardluck having to start in practicing next to a mayonnaise factory." He was still looking over his shoulders at the sign when he collided with a little young woman hurrying down the stairs. It was Laura Belle Jones herself—sole proprietor of the mayonnaise factory. She was hurrying out to post an important letter and was in special haste as she had left some mayonnaise in the electric mixer. This she explained as the doctor begged her pardon for causing the collision and then offered to post her letter for her.

That was sufficient introduction Laura Belle seemed such a nice sensible sort of girl that the young doctor welcomed her society. Patients were slow in coming and sometimes Doctor Montresor, weary of waiting in during office hours, would leave his own door open and then call on Laura Belle watching out from a crack in Laura's door for patients who might and sometimes did come. Meantime Laura Belle, clad in an immaculate white work frock and cap, would continue measuring ingredients for the mayonnaise, set the mixer stirring, or fill innumerable jars with the golden emulsion.

"Your business is thriving better than mine," said Doctor Montresor one day, as he watched with considerable interest the deft hands of Laura Belle fitting tops on the filled jars. "Apparently Yateston has more need of mayonnaise than medicine."

Laura Belle laughed a little. "Well, I figured it out that there would be a fair demand," she said. "I had tried so many things—tutoring little children, sewing by the day, raising garden flowers. It was about time I hit on something that would bring in a little money. But I can't say that I'm making a fortune. To be sure I'm busy. There are about six stores that take my mayonnaise regularly, recommend it to their customers and post my advertisements. But there are as many more that won't handle it Felix's on Main street, Blaine's, Dawson's, Smith's, Gage's and Wilson's They insist that people want the other brands and don't see what an advantage it is to handle a sort that can be delivered fresh every day or so right after it is made. If I could get those other grocers then I guess I'd begin to make real money."

That afternoon after Doctor Montresor had made his short rounds, he turned down one of the coming business streets with considerable determination. He left his car in front of a large and prosperous food story. He left a fairly large order for various food products, mentioned at random He ended his order with "six jars of Laura Belle mayonnaise." The grocer said they didn't carry that brand, but had something "rather better."

"Oh, I'm sorry; I really don't want any other sort. I'm sorry, too, to have to call off that order. I'm settling in town here, and I want to have regular dealings with a good grocer, but I'm stuck on that Laura Belle mayonnaise. No, never mind the rest of the things. I'll get 'em all at the same store."

Then Doctor Montresor went to another and still another grocery store until he had finished the list of stores that did not take the Laura Belle mayonnaise. At each he went through virtually the same transactions.

The next afternoon Laura Belle was beaming when he called on her—beaming and very busy. Four of the grocers who had held out had put in big orders. While Doctor Montresor was calling, a fifth gave an order over the telephone.

So well acquainted did the young doctor and the young maker of mayonnaise become in the few weeks following that Doctor Montresor felt it his duty to mention the fact of his engagement.

He tried to do it casually, not wishing to give the slightest suggestion that he felt Laura Belle would feel any regret. The emotion that she had difficulty in concealing was first of all surprise.

"I'm glad you told me," was all she said.

"I really forgot you didn't know," said the doctor, a little confused. "It has been such a long engagement that all my friends seem never to think of me in any way but as the some-time husband of Kathaleen Mayes."

"Is that her name?" said Laura deliberately. And then, "Kathaleen is a pretty name — lots prettier than Laura."

"Oh, I don't know," said the doctor. "You see, she's my uncle's ward. He's anxious to see us married. I suppose we shall be some time, but not until I'm able to support her myself. I know I'll make good here, but it is slow. In the meantime I don't want to accept my uncle's proposition to give me $10,000 so I can marry Kathaleen before I can support her."

Laura Belle listened attentively but with a certain listlessness. "Can't things just drift along?" she said, not knowing exactly what she meant by this query.

"Hang it, no," said Laurence Montresor. "Uncle is coming on with Kathaleen tomorrow. They want to see how I am getting on. If uncle sees how slowly things are going here he's sure to offer me that money. And he's sure to say that it's my duty to take it, since it isn't fair to Kathaleen to keep her waiting so long. If I could only show them an office full of patients, then there wouldn't be any excuse for speaking of money—and things could just be put off."

"But aren't you impatient? Don't you want to marry her?"

"Not especially," said Laurence Montresor. "Oh, we'll get along wonderfully. We're immensely congenial and all that. Only—well, I guess I'm not the marrying sort."

The next afternoon Mr. Lidley, Doctor Montresor's uncle, arrived with Kathaleen Mayes and insisted on sitting in the young doctor's waiting room to observe his patients as they arrived for evening hours.

He consented reluctantly. "Oh, you can't expect a beginner to have many," he said.

But when Doctor Montresor and his party arrived that evening there were already four patients waiting in the corridor. Ten or eleven arrived shortly. There were not enough chairs. Some of the younger ones propped themselves against the windowsills or on the arms of the chairs.

The thing that struck Montresor with surprise was that five of them were members of Laura Belle's immediate family. The rest were cousins or aunts. Their maladies seemed to be of an indefinite nature, but they came in separately, and all seemed to take the thing seriously. The last one of the patients was Laura Belle, who had slipped in after the rest. She remained in Doctor Montresor's private office for some time, and when she went the doctor saw her to the door.

"Good-by, Laura Belle," he said, but nothing more, because Kathaleen and her uncle were sitting there waiting.

Without further ado Kathaleen explained. "This settles it," she said. "If I had found you here fighting against bad business, and friendless, I was going to stick it out. But I find you with a practice any doctor might be proud of. Then there is this little Laura person. I know from the way she looks at you she loves you, and I dare say you love her, too. Honest, Laurence," said Kathaleen putting her hand on the young man's arm. "I'm in love with some one else. I want to be released—and I dare say you do, too."

And that night, after the uncle and his ward had departed by a night train, Doctor Montresor sought Laura Belle out at her home and told her what he had not felt free to tell her before, and Laura Belle looked very happy.

Thieves broke into the elevator at Guilford Thursday night and carried away twenty-five bushels of seed wheat.

News of the Constitutional Convention for the Past Week

(Written by J. S. Hubbard, executive Secretary of the Missouri Press Association).

Jefferson City, Oct. 7.—As this letter goes out the report of the Committee on State Officers and Salaries is under discussion in the committee of the whole, and is expected to make record time in getting through, due to the fact that few changes have been made in the sections it has considered, and also to the fact that some of the matters were discussed and passed upon in the report of the Committee on Executive and Ministerial Departments.

One of the chief new features embodied in the committee report was the provision for the creation of a "Public Safety Contingent Fund," to be disbursed by the governor in the interest of the "health, peace, safety and general welfare of the citizens of the state. The amount to be set aside was named as $50,000 for each biennial period. It was explained by members of the committee that this fund was to meet emergencies that might arise such as floods, great conflagrations, cyclones, epidemics, riots, etc. At present no fund is available for any such purpose and yet it was pointed out that the governor was charged with conserving the peace throughout the state. His only recourse at present, it was stated, was to call out the militia to quell disturbances, and this was considered an unnecessary expense in many cases.

The plan of the committee met with prompt and vigorous opposition in the committee of the whole, and while no vote was taken on the first day it was evident that it had little liklihood of passage, at least in the form in which it was presented.

The committee in its report fixed no salaries of state officers, but amendments were proposed in the case of the governor, one calling for a salary of $10,000 per year and the other for $9,000. Both were voted down by the convention, a majority holding the same opinion as the committee that salaries should be fixed by the general assembly so that they could be easily changed from time to time if found to be too high or too low. It was the sense of the convention also that salaries should be fixed to cover all activities of state officers and that all fees should be turned into the state treasury.

The provision in the old constitution in regard to any person holding more than one office was changed by the committee to provide that this should not apply to other than cities of the first class or to notaries public, justices of the peace, or officers of the militia.

That President John C. Tobin of the St. Louis school board is laboring under a misapprehension in his opposition to the state board of education proposed by the Committee on Education of the convention is the declaration of that committee. In a long letter to the committee in which he recited the wonderful school system that has been built up under the present management of the St. Louis schools, Mr. Tobin urges that St. Louis be put in a class by itself and be not made subject to state control. In this connection he wants the old constitution provisions to stand as they are. The same plea was made by representatives of the St. Louis Public School Patrons' Alliance who appeared before the committee this week. It was pointed out by the committee that the proposed board would have no more relation to St. Louis schools than the present ex-officio board and state superintendent unless it be to give them assistance. Apparently the school board and the alliance members believed that they were not under the supervision of the state now, but were shown that they were in error by members of the committee. However, the committee changed the wording of its report in reference to the state board to meet in part the wish of the last delegation that appeared before it. The revised section is as follows:

"The general assembly shall provide for the election of a state board of education of six members, in whom the supervision of instruction in the public schools of the state shall be vested, and shall fix the term of office and the per diem compensation of its members. Said board shall report the condition of the public schools to each regular session of the general assembly, together with recommendations of such changes in the school laws as in its judgment will promote the education interest of the state, and shall have such other powers and duties as may be prescribed by law." Another provision is that the state board of education shall select and appoint a commissioner of education, prescribe his powers and duties and fix his compensation.

An amendment before the Committee on Education provides that in the distribution of state aid to the country schools a minimum of $250 per year be paid to each district and that the district be required to raise by taxation $300, or more if necessary, to insure the maintenance of six months' school each year. It was pointed out that many small districts were assessing their maximum for school purposes and yet were receiving no more than rich districts which did not assess, in some cases, more than a fourth of the rate. While not meeting the approval of the committee it will be presented on the floor of the convention.

Several suggestions have been made as to fixing a time for final adjournment and the latest is Dec. 1. However, it is not possible yet to estimate how much more time will be required to finish the reports. Nine are now in and three only have been through the committee of the whole, with a chance of much time being taken on them in the convention before their final passage. Five more reports are yet to come and the one on taxation will probably consume more time than any other. That committee is through with its work, but its report will not be presented until next week. The other committees still to report are those on Counties, Cities and Town, Agriculture, Education, and the Committee on Congressional, Judicial, Senatorial and Representative Districts. The last named has given notice that it will have little to report. But it is difficult to determine how much time will be required to pass on the various reports. Matters that it was not expected would take any time have provoked lengthy discussion and in some cases important amendments before being approved. The members are anxious to get through as soon as possible, but concede the right of everyone to be heard on any point that is not entirely satisfactory or clear. With over eighty active minds in the convention it is not possible for everyone to be satisfied with every proposition without some consideration. Everyone feels the need of perfecting an instrument which will stand the test for years to come and while the time consumed has been longer than anyone estimated at the start, it is agreed that it is the duty of all to finish the job even if it takes another three months. It is believed that some of the reports will take much less time than has been consumed on the four that have been considered in part or as a whole.

The most important action of the convention the past week was the disposition of the report of the Committee on Executive and Ministerial Departments. The budget system provided for in the report, which was explained in last week's letter, was approved with only minor changes.

Part three of the report which provides for a limitation of the civil departments of the state government to twelve received long consideration and was amended to meet the views of a majority of the members, being finally agreed to in the committee of the whole, as amended, and the whole report was returned to the convention. After it has gone to the Committee on Phrascology and Arrangement it will be again before the convention for amendment and final passage.

This part of the report provides that there shall be not more than twelve civil departments of which the first four will be state, law, audit and accounts, and treasury, to be headed respectively by the secretary of state, attorney-general, state auditor and state treasurer. The other departments are left for the general assembly to name, as it is to create them. One substitute offered provides for the naming of all the departments, as state, law, audit and accounts, finance, taxation and revenue, commerce and industry, public utilities, education, agriculture, highways and public works, public welfare, and military affairs. The principal difference from the committee report was in naming all the departments and providing for the duties and powers of each. Special exception was taken to making the public service commission and the tax commission constitutional bodies and they were voted out of the substitute before it was itself defeated. Various other substitutes were offered and defeated, some aiming to leave the constitution as it is and others providing changes which it was believed would have rendered the system ineffective.

After naming the four departments the committee report as amended provides that the general assembly shall provide by law for the organization of all civil functions of the state government in the departments named in the preceding section or which shall thereafter be created, in one of which every function, power and duty of the civil department of the state government shall be exercised and performed. Such departments are to be under such supervision and regulation as the general assembly may from time to time prescribe by law. Subject to the limitations of the constitution, the general assembly may from time to time assign by law new powers and functions to the departments created under the constitution; and increase, modify or diminish their powers and functions as created by law: Provided, that in assigning such civil functions to any of the departments provided for in the last preceding section, all boards, bureaus and commissions, whose duties can be performed by any of those departments, shall be abolished and no renewed or other board, bureau or commission shall be authorized or created to do or perform any act or service that may be done or performed by either of such departments.

From its investigation the committee found upwards of seventy boards or commissions operating in the state and it believes that by the adoption of the provisions in its report many of these may be done away with and their duties, such as are deemed necessary, may be carried on under one of the twelve civil departments, which it believes will result in the saving of thousands of dollars to the people of the state.

Mrs. Henrietta O'Hern, appointed by Gov. Hyde to represent the Thirteenth Congressional district in place of W. A. Rhinehart, resigned, was sworn in as a member of the convention Thursday. She is a Republican and has been active in politics since suffrage was granted to women. Her home is in Hannibal, where she was active in club work and was a leader in war activities, both in the raising of funds and in Red Cross service. Mrs. O'Hern is the fourth woman delegate in the convention and the first one to be appointed. She has three sons and is the wife of Joseph O'Hern, a well known business man of Hannibal.

It is an interesting fact brought out in research by the Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns that the home rule charter systems of all the states that have such systems were copied, at least in part, from the "Missouri Idea" of home rule charters, provided for in the consfitution of 1875. Under its provisions St. Louis was given certain privileges of self-government never before possessed by any American municipality. California in 1879 was the first state to follow Missouri in making constitutional provision for home rule charters and since them there have been many other states following he same general plan. The most phenomenal growth of home rule charters is shown in Ohio, where the system went into effect in 1913, and where more cities have adopted home rule charters than in any other state. In some of the Ohio cities the city manager and commission form of government are included under the charter system. All have the modern municipal ideas, including the initiative, referendum, recall, short ballot, nonpartisan elections, the preferential ballot and the merit system.

MAITHLAND WINS FROM BIGELOW YESTERDAY

Game Refereed by Loren Egley—Played Partly on the Out-of-door Court and Partly Inside

The Maitland High School basketball team won from the Bigelow High School team in a combination game yesterday at Maitland. It was a combination game because part of it was played out-of-doors and the remainder was played on the indoor court.

The first seventeen minutes of the game were played on the outdoor court. In this time the Maitland team ran up a 15 to 8 score. Then the rain came and the teams went indoors. In the remaining three minutes of the first half the Bigelow team hit a streak and made the score 15 to 14.

Because one of the goals was not in the best of condition the second half was played in two 10 minute periods. Maitland won the game by a score of 37 to 22.

The game was refereed by Loren Egley, a student at the State Teachers College. Egley was scheduled to officiate in a game at Hopkins last night but could not get there for the rain.

Communication

To the Editor Democrat-Forum:—

As a visitor to tihs pleasant lively little city, I am surprised, that you allow the hideous old wreck at Fourth and Buchanan streets,—in plain view of the public square, to disgrace your town, another day. It is a fire menace, to nearby property, when little boys with matches and cigarettes get busy. Bill board adds for Budweiser, would be preferable to the present dilapidated spectacle.

33 STATES WILL ELECT SENATORS

THE DEMOCRATS HOPE TO WIN IN A NUMBER OF THEM

TWO WOMEN CANDIDATES

One in Wisconsin and the Other in Minnesota on the Democratic Ticket

Washington, Oct. 7—In thirty-three States United States Senators will be chosen on November 7. The Democrats hope to win in a number of them and thereby reduce materially the Republican majority in the Senate, although the Republicans are equally confident that they will be able to capture several seats now held by Democrats and retain their control of the upper chamber of Congress by a substantial margin.

The so-called Progressives hope for addition to the little group of Republican Senators led by Borah, of Idaho, and La Follette, of Wisconsin, which will strengthen them as a "fighting unit" and weaken the ranks of the Old Guard."

The Democrats have two women candidates for the Senate—one in Wisconsin and the other in Minnesota, but neither is considered likely to win.

With the Maine Senatorial election already settled by the victory of the Republican Senator Hale, the death of Senator "Tom" Watson, of Georgia, unexpectedly provided another Senatorial seat to be filled, with a renewal of factional strife among the Democrats of the State.

The nominees of the two leading parties for the Senate in each of the States where nominations have been made or where the candidates have been informally but definitely selected, with their home addresses, are as follows:

Arizona—Henry F. Ashurst, Prescott; James H. McClintock, Phoenix.

California—William J. Pearson, Los Angeles; Hiram Johnson, San Francisco.

Connecticut—Thomas J. Spellacy, Hartford; George P. McLean, Simsbury.

Delaware—Thomas F. Bayard, Wilmington; T. Coleman du Pont, Wilmington.

Florida—Park Trammell, Lakeland.

Indiana—Samuel M. Ralston, Indianapolis; Albert J. Beveridge, Indianapolis.

Iowa—Clyde L. Herring, Des Moines; Smith W. Brookhart, Washington.

Maryland—William Cabell Bruce, Baltimore; Joseph I France, Port Deposit.

Massachusetts—William A. Gaston, Boston; Henry Cabot Lodge, Nahant.

MINISTER'S ALLIANCE ENDORSES SCHOOL DAY

Call on All the People of Maryville and Nodaway County to Gather Here School Day

The minister's alliance of Maryville has strongly endorsed the Nodaway County Rural School Day next Wednesday, October 11, and call on all the people of Maryville and Nodaway County to come to Maryville on that day. The resolution follows:

"To the Maryville Chamber of Commerce and all others whom it may concern:

The Minister's Association of Maryville has been taking note of the plans for School Day for Nodaway County, on next Wedensday, October 11th. We understand that it is to be a day of recognition of the schools; that its purpose is to stimulate the boys and girls of our schools and high schools by a healthy spirit of rivalry in the presentation of floats and stunts; and also to increase the interest of the general public in our schools by this presentation of what our schools are actually accomplishing. Especially do we note that the effort is to have a day of good, wholesome recreation and association for the boys and girls and grownups of our entire county.

We, therefore, heartily commend you, the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, as the originator and leader of these plans, all other organizations co-operating with you, and all co-workers; for what you are doing to give to all the folks of all ages from all parts of Nodaway County this School Day. We are glad it is to be Nodaway County day, and not a mere Maryville Day, and that the principal part is to be taken by boys and girls from all over the county.

Our commendation is the heartier, and the readier, on account of the way in which Nodaway County Day was handled last year at the celebration of Centennial Day. Everything that day was wholesome and uplifting for our community and county. We recall the universal pleasure and satisfaction at the program provided. There was no bad taste.

We, the Minister's Association, were especially pleased with the elimination from that celebration of all those disgusting and degrading features of the street fair and carnival type which never fail to mar and spoil the success and universal satisfaction of such occasions. We count it a demonstration to Nodaway County that the greatest pleasure is to be found in the good and the wholesome.

In the confidence, therefore, that School Day is to differ from Centenial Day only in being bigger and better, we pledge to you our support and call on all the people of Maryville and Nodaway County to gather in Maryville on School Day, October 11th, for Nodaway County's second big family day.

Minister's Association

PROSPECTS FOR OIL AT BARNARD

C. M. WATSON WILL SINK TEST WELL ON OWN RISK

LARGE ACREAGE LEASED

Has Equipment at Sheridan, Wyo., Ready to Be Shipped If Required Acreage Is Secured

What may be a big boom commercially for Barnard and community is in the air, says this week's Barnard Bulletin. Actual developments in the form of over 4,000 acres pledged and leased to an oil syndicate seem to point certainly to the fact that a test well for oil will be sunk somewhere between Barnard and Bolckow within probably the next thirty days. The test well is to be sunk to a depth of 3,500 feet and the promoter plans to sink more than one if the first well is not commercially successful.

The facts leading up to these developments given consecutively are as follows: Some years ago, a man who subsequently went into the oil business and became successful, dug a well between Barnard and Bolckow. The water was not fit for use due to oil. After his experience with the oil business he wrote to a local man telling him of the circumstances.

Some seven or eight years ago, a party of oil men made a scouting trip from Texas oil wells in the direction which the oil fields generally lie and passed through this part of the country, stopping their expidition in Iowa. The territory between Barnard and Bolckow lies in the center of the oil districts, if the trend in direction can be counted. These two facts coupled together led C. M. Watson, head of the Watson Syndicate to bring several men here some three weeks ago for a conference with local land owners in a effort to secure leases.

It was impossible to obtain their ends at that time, so last Tuesday, Mr. Watson returned alone and has been able with local assistance to secure over 4,000 acres in pledges and leases for his oil project. He asks for 5,000 acres or more before he begins operations.

In case the required number of acres be secured by leases, 5,000 or over being the amount set by Mr. Watson, the operation will probably begin within thirty days. We understand that he has 11 cars loaded with the necessary machinery at Sheridan, Wyoming, and is ready to ship it upon receiving word that the required acreage has been secured.

79 AND 81 YEAR OLD SPORTSMEN

"UNCLE NEWT" AND "UNCLE TOMMY" WRAY

ARE EXCEEDINGLY ACTIVE

If the Good Fish Are in the Stream They Pull Them Out and Woe to Squirrel and Rabbit

Newt Wray, 81 years old, and Thomas Wray, 79 years old, known to their many friends as "Uncle Newt" and "Uncle Tommy," are each the fathors of eleven children and since both are widowers they put in most of their time visiting with their sons and daughters, most of whom live in Nodaway County. And talk about active old men, says, Uncle Newt and Uncle Tommy would take the championship.

The favorite pass time of the old gentlemen is the sport of hunting and fishing. During this season and throughout the winter they are likely to be found with a modern shot gun bringing down squirrels from the highest trees or hunting, knocking bunny rabbit over as he runs and during the spring and summer months they are likely to be found along some stream angling for the wiley fish. Those who know their record as fishermen say that if they do not pull the good ones out it is simply because there are no good ones to be had.

Both Uncle Newt and Uncle Tommy believe in strict observance of the game and fish law and are as careful as can be to avoid violations. In addition to this neither of them believe in killing quail, regardless of the fact that the law allows them to be killed a part of the time. Both are careful that they secure their hunter's license at the proper time each year.

Uncle Tommy went down to the home of a son, Carl Wray near Guilford, the other day and took with him a half-bushel or so of nice hickory nuts. Carl Wray had noticed that the children were bringing in some hickory nuts but knew that they were having a good deal of trouble getting them down out of the trees.

"Father," he said, "where did you get all these nuts?"

"Why, I got them up in the woods," replied Uncle Tommy.

"Well, how on earth did you get them?" asked the son.

"O," said the father, "I climbed the trees and clubbed them off, then got down and gathered them up. It was easy."

Uncle Newt and Uncle Tommy were both born in Ohio, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Wray. When they were quite young their parents moved to the Myrtle Tree neighborhood and the Wrays have lived here ever since. Both served in the Union army during the Civil War and Uncle Newt was at one time sheriff of Nodaway County.

A younger brother, J. Arthur Wray, walked last year to Oklahoma.

HINTS THAT RUSSIA SUPPLIES TURK AID

Ohio Business Man Says Reds Fall Under Suspicion of Helping Kemalists.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 7.—"Because Turkey, without previously soliciting for funds, started a war against a Greek army numbering over 200,000 many foreign statesmen are convinced she is getting financial support from some source, and Russia falls under suspicion of being the most likely source," declared Colonel James Linn Rodgers, local business man, who has just returned from Europe, where he spent several months studying conditions there.

Colonel Rodgers, who for many years was attached to the United States Consular Service, asserted that Russia wants chaotic conditions to exist among the Balkan States in order that Bolshevism might spread. He said Bolshevism will be assisted through anything accomplished by Turkey along the line of disturbing the balance of power to the Allies in the Balkan territory.

"Beyond a doubt Russia is bending every effort to establish her politics," continued Colonel Rodgers. "The doctrine is taking root in German circles, as proved by the disclosures of the Rapallo treaty between Russia and Germany which broke up the Genoa conference.

It has spread, also, to the Far East, with the result that trouble is likely to break out between Siberia and Japan at any time."

Characterizing conditions abroad as "pitiful," Colonel Rodgers declared that Russia, afflicted with political and economic unrest, is suffering the most.

SMALL ST. JOSEPH BOYS COME TO GRIEF HERE

Were Stranded Last Night and Taken Care of at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Rooms.

An interesting exemplification of kindness came as a result of the rain yesterday. Three boys, ranging in age from six to twelve years, were stranded in Maryville. They were from St. Joseph and were caddies at the St. Joseph Country Club. Yesterday morning as they were on their way to the Country Club when a truck headed for Savannah passed. The boys "hopped on," planning to ride as far as Savannah and then catch a ride back to the city.

When the truck arrived in Savannah the boys decided to ride a little farther, thinking all the time that they would catch a ride back. Before they knew it the truck pulled into Barnard, and, thinking they were in Maryville, the boys got off. When they found that they were in Barnard, they decided to come on to Maryville. Consequently they started on, walking. Presently they caught a ride and arrived in Maryville just before the rain.

After the rain the boys began to realize how far they were from home and to wonder how they would get back. They walked the streets for some time and finally they decided to hunt a barn and sleep. They walked for an hour or so and about 9 o'clock wound up in front of the home of Ed Costello on South Buchanan street.

Mr. Costello came out of his house about this time, on his way to town. He saw the boys and asked them what they were doing. When he had heard their story, he brought them to town in his car and took them to the Pennington restaurant, where he filled them up with supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pennington were told of the facts of the case and Mrs. Pennington called one of the boys' mother in St. Joseph and told her that her boy was all right. The boy also talked to his mother.

About 10 o'clock Jack Pennington took two of the boys over to the Veterans of Foreign Wars rooms and put them to bed The other boy had become frightenend and fearing that he would be arrested he slipped out of the restaurant after he had eaten. He started to walk to St. Joseph but became frightened and returned. He was also taken to the V. F. W. rooms.

This morning Mr. Pennington gave the boys their breakfast, took them to the Burlington depot, purchased tickets for them and put them on the train for St. Joseph.

PAUL PICKEN'S TEAM PLAYS AT AMARILLO, TEXAS

Game Played in Evening in $10,000 Bowl—Was in Evening on Account Of Hot Days

Paul Pickens, who is teaching manual training and coaching athletics in the Guymore, Okla., high school writes that he has played his first football game of the year at Amarillo, Texas, and that the game was played at night with the gridiron lighted by army searchlights and high powered tungstens.

In speaking of the game Pickens says in his letter, "They beat us 15 to 6, but I'm not a bit discouraged over the result. They outweighed us sixteen pounds to the man and Amarillo is a town of 25,000. We made the trip in cars, a five-days' trip of 360 miles. The game was played at night in Amarillo's new $10,000 bowl. The field was lighted by army searchlights and strings of 300 candle power tungstens. Playing at night is a good idea here in this country in early fall, the days are so hot that the boys play much better at night for the nights are quite cool."

Pickens was quarterback and captain of last year's Bearcats and took his degree from the College last summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Pickens.

THE REV. MR. JAMES AND DAUGHTER CALLED TO TRENTON

But Mrs. James' Condition Becomes More Favorable—Have Moved the Household Goods

The Rev. C. C. James, new pastor of the First Methodist Church of Maryville, and his daughter, Miss Minnie B. James of the State Teachers College faculty, were called to Trenton yesterday by the condition of Mrs. James, who has been ill for some time. When they got to St. Joseph they received word that Mrs. James had taken a turn for the better and they returned to Maryville.

Mr. James has been here throughout the week. He gave his first sermons here Sunday. His household goods arrived here Wednesday and he will finish moving them into the parsonage at 216 South Main street this afternoon. Mr. James has been somewhat delayed in getting into the parsonage, since the house is being repapered.

Mr. James said this morning that he will be at home from now on at the parsonage. He will preach morning and evening tomorrow at the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. James will not arrive in Maryville until her condition becomes such that she can be moved here. C. Byron James, her son, has stopped his work and is remaining with his mother. The Rev. Mr. James said this morning that his son may come to Maryville to make his headquarters.

"BETTER HOMES WEEK DEMONSTRATION"

October 9th to 14th is National "Better Homes Week." With this thought in mind we have arranged a series of complete room displays in our store which will be suggestive of the Better Homes idea. Of course, everyone wants to improve their home.

"The future history of America will be shaped in a large measure by the character of its homes. If we continue to be a home-loving people we shall have the strength that comes only from a virile family life. This means that our homes must be attractive, comfortable, convenient, wholesome. They must keep pace with the progress made outside the home. Realization of this has chrystalized into a national civic campaign for Better Home in America, endorsed and encouraged by Federal and State officials and by prominent men in public life."

We believe that everyone visiting this demonstration will gain valuable ideas on the improvement of their individual homes.

Of course, no one but a Rockefeller or a Carnegie would pay $100.00 for a mattress—but some one who visits our store next week will receive the finest mattress made in America as a present from the Price Furniture Co. This mattress will be given away in the following manner:

Every adult person visiting our Better Homes Demonstration will receive a number, duplicates of these numbers will be put in a box and on Saturday night October 14th at 8 o'clock a number will be drawn from the box, the holder of this number will receive the mattress.
